Can you count the stars of evening That are shining in the sky? Can you count the clouds that daily Over all the world go by? God the Lord, who doth not slumber, Keepeth all the boundless number; But He careth more for thee, But He careth more for thee. Can you count the birds that warble In the sunshine all the day? Can you count the little fishes

Can You Count The Stars? Hymn Lyrics

Can you count the stars shining in the sky?
Can you hold the moonlight in your hand? Can you stop the waves rolling on the shore? Or find the place where rainbows meet the land?
I've got a friend who knows how all these things are done Jesus Lord of all, God's only Son Up in outer space, planets spinning round Millions more than we can ever see

You have not studied astronomy, not even for a single semester. So do not speak about matters which you do not understand! J: Yes, of course my studies were in a totally different field. But I still maintain that nobody is able to count the stars, because they total such a large number, similar to the number of grains of sand on the beach.
